LunAzione Collective is a company of actors, directors, playwrights and scenic technicians, it was born in Naples in 2013. It pursues study, promotion, activity and experimentation of theatre as form of expression with an high social role: it sets this trait as guideline for all group's cultural enterprises.

It chases a renovated attention to theatrical act's communicative and empathic range, yearning moreover for audience's discriminating reflection and interests facilitation, through alternative communication methods too. The company pays attention to preparing and staging process' low environmental impact and to culture of legality's strengthening.

It studies cultural diversities and aims for the creation of national and international network that permit reception and testing proposals, solutions and leanings from various provenances, resorting to collaborations and exchanges with other theatrical and artistic entities.
